

Greyhound Welfare & Integrity Commission

- Chief Commissioner (full-time)
- Commissioners (2 x part-time)

The NSW Government is implementing a range of measures to secure improved animal welfare outcomes and safeguard industry integrity as part of its focus to restore public confidence in the NSW greyhound racing industry and ensure a sustainable and ethical sport that contributes community and economic benefits to the state.

A dedicated welfare & integrity regulator will ensure industry transparency and accountability, improve education and practices and enforce the prosecution of wrongdoers.

The NSW Government is seeking to appoint a Chief Commissioner as well as two part-time Commissioners to lead its reform agenda and oversight an ethical and responsible greyhound racing industry.

If you're an inspirational leader with extensive experience delivering regulatory reform and navigating complex and demanding environments and are interested in achieving a sustainable greyhound racing industry that enhances animal welfare outcomes and is free from corrupt influence then we'd like to hear from you.

The Chief Commissioner will establish the new Greyhound Welfare & Integrity Commission and ensure an efficient and orderly transfer of functions from the existing controlling body, Greyhound Racing NSW. The Chief Commissioner, assisted by the Commissioners, is responsible for leading the development and implementation of contemporary animal welfare and regulatory practices and positioning the Commission to deliver effective and credible oversight of greyhound racing in NSW. The Commission will have a regional presence and the roles will require regular NSW intrastate travel.

These senior executive opportunities will suit outstanding leaders with sophisticated communication skills and the ability to build effective relationships with both Government and diverse stakeholders.
